FEARS SHE IS ASTRAY.

to Find Florence Taggert.

rear-old daughter has been led astray by an older woman acquaintance Mrs. free Griffen, of 13 Park avenue, Brook free, has esked the police to try to find the girl and bring her home. The girl, Florence Taggert, left her home in her mother's absence last Fri-day. Testerday Mrs. Griffen got a letter from her postmarked "General Post Office, Manhattan," saying:

"I am all right. Don't worry about me. I will be back soon."

Mrs. Griffen learned that a woman friend had helped the girl pack a valise just before they left the house together. The mother says the girl is not way bad influence over her. Florence is described as being five feet one inch tall and weighing 120 pounds When she left home she wore a dark

Bohemians Try to Take Revenge for Boy's Beating.

There was an angry crowd of Bohem sans in the Yorkville Court to-day when Joseph Wrestal, a burly blacksmith, o 2360 Avenue A, was arraigned charged with beating and kicking a ten-year old boy named Joseph Krejzi.

Several of them were in a mob that had stormed the blacksmith in his shop attempting to drag him into the street.

About 6 o'clock last evening there were a number of boys playing in front of Wrestal's place, among them being young Kredzi. Wrestal, annoyed at the antics of the lads, drove them away several times. They returned each time, and at last Wrestal ran out of his shop and, it is charged, grabbed young Krejsi by the ears with both his bands, jerking the lad clear of the ground, and then, it is alleged, threw him on the ground and kicked him about the body.

The boy's cries drew a crowd of neighbors, who, grabbing anything they could find, started for Wrestal.

The blacksmith when he saw the infuriated crowd retreated into his shop and tried to bolt the door. They were too quick for him, however, and pushed the door is. The blacksmith then threats, grabbed an iron bar and, flourishing it. In cour. Mother Asks the Police about his head, kept the throng at bay several bruises, and Wrestal was held until Policeman Gray, of the East Sixty- in 1600 ball for trial.

venth street station, appeared. He drove the mob back and arrested Wrestal, who, however, was followed to the station-house by a crowd muttering

In court to-day the Krejzi boy showed

At An Astonishing Low Price.

Bright woman shopper asked yesterday why we persist in charging less than other stores for the same goods. Why? Well, that's the way we are building up a great business. Economy is a tremendous factor in life. Its influence is never absent. We believe in the little price policy and practise it incessantly, but never at the sacrifice of quality. You like it—and it pays us. Drives
